

WEBB ADVISORY GROUP — CLIENT CASE STUDIES

Compiled: June 2026

CASE STUDY 1: OHIO MANUFACTURING CO. (SILVERPOINT CAPITAL)

Industry: Industrial Manufacturing | Deal size: $47M EV | Completed: 2024

Situation: Silverpoint Capital was evaluating the acquisition of a precision manufacturing company in Ohio. The management team presented well — a CFO with a Big 4 background and a COO who had previously worked at a publicly traded industrial firm.

What Webb Advisory Found: During behavioral interviews, we identified that the COO operated in a fully consensus-driven decision-making style. Every significant decision required full buy-in from all direct reports before action was taken — a critical transition risk for PE-backed acceleration. Document review corroborated this: board minutes showed long deliberation cycles and several deferred strategic decisions.

Action Taken: Silverpoint restructured the management incentive package to separate individual accountability from team consensus, and embedded an operating partner from day one with a clear mandate to model faster decision cadence.

Outcome: Silverpoint reported it as one of their cleanest first-year integrations in five years. No management team changes were required in the first 18 months post-close.

CASE STUDY 2: REGIONAL STAFFING FIRM (CASTLEGATE EQUITY)

Industry: Professional Staffing | Deal size: $28M EV | Completed: 2023

Situation: Castlegate was evaluating a regional professional staffing business with 35% revenue growth over three years. The founder-CEO wanted to stay on post-close. Castlegate's concern: could he operate effectively with a board above him after 12 years as sole decision-maker?

What Webb Advisory Found: The CEO showed clear autonomy bias — no existing reporting structures, had never presented to a board. Reference calls also surfaced a succession risk: the VP Operations had been actively recruited twice and declined primarily out of loyalty to the founder, a dynamic that would shift post-close.

Action Taken: Castlegate redesigned the CEO retention package with a performance scorecard tied to board-defined metrics. The VP Operations' equity grant was accelerated to retain her through the transition.

Outcome: Both leaders are still with the business 2.5 years post-close. Revenue is up 18% in the first full year under PE ownership.

CASE STUDY 3: B2B SAAS COMPANY — MANAGEMENT RISK IDENTIFIED

Industry: B2B SaaS | Deal size: $85M EV | Completed: 2025

Situation: A growth equity fund was evaluating a B2B SaaS company with strong ARR growth. The CEO was a founder with one prior exit. Initial impression: experienced, strategic, low-risk.

What Webb Advisory Found: Inconsistencies between the CEO's described product roadmap and the actual development timeline in documents. Independent reference calls surfaced concerns about transparency during a prior product delay. The VP Product — critical to the roadmap being underwritten — was not in any retention conversation and appeared disengaged.

Action Taken: The fund renegotiated the deal structure to include a 30% earnout tied to product milestones and added quarterly reporting requirements. VP Product was put on an accelerated retention package.

Outcome: Deal closed. VP Product still on board. One product milestone was missed at month 9; the earnout structure gave the fund leverage to address it without a contentious renegotiation.

CASE STUDY 4: FAMILY-OWNED DISTRIBUTION BUSINESS (MERIDIAN PARTNERS)

Industry: Industrial Distribution | Deal size: $31M EV | Completed: 2023

Situation: Meridian was evaluating a family-owned industrial distribution business. The founder was retiring and had named his son as CEO two years prior. Core question: was the son ready to lead under PE ownership?

What Webb Advisory Found: The CEO was commercially talented but had never built a management team from scratch. One regional manager accounting for 28% of revenue had been underperforming for 18 months with no formal feedback given.

Action Taken: Meridian required as a close condition that the business hire an experienced COO within 60 days post-close. Meridian identified the candidate through their operating partner network.

Outcome: COO hired within 45 days. Underperforming regional manager subsequently separated at month 8. CEO described the COO relationship as "the most important thing Meridian did for me." Revenue rebounded with a new regional manager in place.
